

ATTENDANCE DURING INCLEMENT WEATHER

Schools will generally be closed in the event of severe weather conditions. However, there may be circumstances when weather conditions are marginal but not severe enough for schools to be closed. Depending on factors such as location within the city and age of children, some parents may choose to keep children at home on inclement weather days or to have children arrive after the normal school starting time. With written parental permission for the absence or tardiness caused by poor weather conditions, students may complete the school work which was missed.

Revised 7/20/87